Anglo-Saxon Heroic Virtues	4-5pm
Countess Isolde de la Ramee	Class A
Often when we think of Medieval virtues, we think of the Knightly Virtues of the late Middle Ages. The warriors of the early Middle Ages had their own virtues, some similar, some different from those of the later period. We can find evidence of them in the poetry of Anglo-Saxon England. This class offers a survey of those virtues.

The Art of 3D Fighting	3-5pm
Viscount Sir Donnan the Truehearted	Outside 2
The Art of 3D fighting is designed for all levels of fighting. If you have the following questions, come and find out:
How do I face someone better than I am? Is there something I should work on everyday even when I only have 15 minutes? How can I hit something I can't see? Is there a way I can train to be more automatic? What are some basic guidelines the better fighters follow that the rest of us don't? How can I be faster? Is there a way to work on combinations to make them flow better? What can I do to increase my footwork but not feel wore out at the end of the fight? I'm flustered that there are better fighters than I am when I have been doing it longer. What are they doing that I'm not? Is it important what I eat before I fight? What about after? I have plateaued... How can I improve? Lots more... Come learn the "rule of 3", the Rope Trick, how to beat someone without laying a stick on them, angle fighting (it's a game of inches) and dirty Knights Tricks.
